

Yes! Many pilots and crew make themselves available before and after flying activities to answer your questions. Some of the aircraft can be toured on the inside; there may be an extra fee for this privilege. This fee helps maintain and keep rare aircraft flying for others to see. Some other restrictions may also apply.